TRANSMISSION INFORMATION REQUEST

2025 APPLICATION PACKAGE

NSPI offers a package of basic information on its transmission system on request under terms of a Confidentiality Agreement. The Transmission System Information Package is suitable for parties interested in interconnection to the NSPI transmission system. This data is not intended to provide all of the information needed to perform a full System Impact Study, which must be conducted under the guidance of NSPI.

The Transmission System Information Package contains the following information:

- A simplified electrical one-line diagram of the NSPI transmission system.
- A geographical map of NS showing the location (and line designation) of all transmission lines (69kV and above), with the location of all transmission and major distribution substations (labeled by Station ID). The map is colour-coded by transmission voltage and shows county borders.
- A list of all transmission substations (excluding 345kV), sorted by voltage, then Station ID, with the following information for each substation:
 - Station ID
 - Location
 - Loss factors for 6 blocks of generation (25 MW to 150 MW in 25 MW steps). Blocks greater than 50 MW are not shown for 69kV substations. Loss factors reflect the impact on overall system losses by placing a generation plant of a specified size at a specific location on the transmission system. A negative loss factor reflects a reduction in system losses. These factors represent the present system configuration while a full System Impact Study examines future configuration. There is no attempt to confirm whether a generator of the specified size can be installed at that location without system upgrades.
 - Short Circuit Level and X/R Ratio. This is an indication of the system strength at the specified substation. This information can be used for several purposes, for example, the determination of the level of voltage flicker that will likely be introduced based on the type of generation technology used.

Unless otherwise specified, the Transmission System Information Package will be delivered via e-mail attachment when the application and an executed (signed) Confidentiality Agreement have been received.

The PDF files can be printed, searched, and magnified using the Adobe Acrobat Reader, which is available for free from: <http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html>

The Transmission System Information Package will be provided to interested parties who agree to hold this information in confidence by executing the Confidentiality Agreement and completing the Application Form.
